

PRESIDENT PREPARES
FOR ANY EMERGENCY

WAR DEPARTMENT CONTINUES
PRECAUTIONS WITH REFER-ENCE TO MEXICAN TROUBLE.

CONGRESS MAY MEET

Question of Intervention May Be Placed Before Special Session
Rebels Threaten Raid Into Arizona.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 9.—The tensisity of the situation along the Mexican border was reflected here today by the continuation of preparations for any emergency principally the possibility of President Taft's calling a special session of congress to pass
upon the question of intervention.

With the border patrols strengthened by additional cavalry and other troops practically upon their arms at posts throughout the west ready to move at an hour's notice to supplement the forces in Arizona and New Mexico frontiers, war department officials felt they had the situation well
in hand for the present, but were apprehensive of the next move of the rebel general Salazar encamped within sight of the United States troops protesting he meant no harm but believed to be planning another raid into American territory. Reports of another revolt in southern Mexico did not command much interest.

It was pointed out that the situation in which the United States is concerned is that along the border.
Armed cowboys acting as volunteer scouts are patrolling the boundary line, while regular troops are concentrated at points where Mexican rebels might cross to steal cattle or pillage ranches.

Order Munitions Held.

Arms and ammunition which President Taft authorized exported to Mexico for use of Americans in danger from rebels in Cananea have been ordered held up at Douglas, Arizona,
until there are assurances they will not fall into the hands of the rebels.
The arms will be held at Douglas,
until the railway south as far as Nacozari is clear of rebels and until the Mexican government is able to furnish a guard to insure the safety of the arms.

It is expected here that the immediate effect of rebel interference with the railway will be to hasten the extra session of the Mexican senate to authorize the sending of troops out of Mexico to Chihuahua and Sonora.
Gen. Steever in command of the American border patrol reports his forces now sufficient to repel any raiders.

Threatens a Raid.

Early dispatches to the war department today reported Salazar the Mexican rebel leader encamped across the Arizona line opposite the Lang
ranch threatening a raid into American territory. One of his troops captured in a skirmish has told American soldiers that raids upon American ranches were upon personal orders of Salazar who wanted beef for his men.

MADE GREAT SPEED

AT CHICAGO MEET

Vedrine, French Aviator, Flies At 105.5 Miles Per Hour At International Aviation Contest.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Sept. 9.—In a flight by which France generally was conceded
to have won the world's aviation championship for 1912, Jules Vedrine, the French champion aviator,
in a Deperdussin monoplane at the clearing course today covered the 124 miles in one hour, ten minutes
and 55.5 seconds.

Vedrine's average speed was about 105.5 miles an hour, almost but not quite equal to his previous record.
Vedrine completed his spin before noon, sailing 20 times over the 4.14
mile course.

Hopes that America still may have a chance of retaining the James Gordon Bennett trophy, which was won by Charles T. Weymann, of the Isle of Sheppey, England, last year and which is the symbol of the world
supremacy, are centered in De Lacy Thompson who will attempt to fly
this afternoon in Nieuport monoplane.

Conceded to France.

Major Samuel Reber of New York,
chairman of the contest committee of the Aero Club of America, this afternoon conceded the trophy to France.
"We have not a ghost of a show,"
he said, "the Frenchmen will carry off
the honor. None of our machines could come within 40 minutes of Vedrine's time."

IMPORTANT CONTEST
AT MAINE ELECTION

Democrats and Republicans Engaged in Bitter Fight at Polls Today
in Pine Tree State.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Portland, Maine, Sept. 9.—With several well defined state issues to be decided and a few questions of national importance to be passed upon, the voters of Maine went to the polls today to select a governor, four congressmen, county officers and members of the state legislature. The legislative members selected today
will be those who will vote for United States senators next winter. Governor Frederick W. Plaisted heads
the state democratic ticket and William Haines, republican candidate for governor.

The Democrats are now in power,
and have the machinery of government at their command. They realize that, should they be turned down by the voters as incompetent and unsatisfactory, it would likely be years before they could return to power. This is not all they are fighting for, however, for in November comes the national election, and the Democratic party in Maine feels certain that the winning of the state will, without doubt, mean that they will land the six electoral votes of the Pine Tree
State for Wilson in November.

The Republicans have endeavored to keep local issues to the fore in the campaign, while the Democrats have paid most attention to the tariff and other national questions. Governor
Marshall of Indiana, Speaker Champ
Clark and a host of other noted Democratic leaders who have stumped the State the past ten days have confined their remarks solely to national issues.

Opinion differs as to the effect that the advent of the Progressive party
will have on the result of the election.
The Progressives have not put a state ticket in the field and this has led the old party to believe that the Progressives as a whole will support
the regular Republican nominees.

The Republican candidate for governor is William T. Haines of Waterville, a former attorney general of Maine. He is opposed by Governor Frederick W. Plaisted, Democrat. The contest for United States senator is between Edwin C. Burleigh, who was a representative in Congress for many years, and the present Democratic senator, Obadiah Gardner, who was elected last spring to succeed William P. Frye.

Maine will also elect four congressmen. In the first district, Tom Reed's old district, Asher C. Hinds,
Republican, is opposed by Michael T.
O'Brien, a Portland lawyer. In the Second, the district which was represented by Frye, Dingley, and Littlefield, the Republican candidate is William B. Skelton of Lewiston, a former state bank examiner and one of the shrewdest politicians in the district. He hopes to defeat Congressman Daniel J. McGillicuddy, the Democratic incumbent. In the Third district Congressman Samuel W. Gould, Democrat, is opposed by Forest Goodwin, a lawyer and former president of the state senate. In the Fourth district the contest lies between John
A. Madigan and Frank E. Guernsey, Republican, who is now in point of service of the four Maine congressmen.

NICARAGUAN REBELS

THREATEN HONDURAS

Reported to be Planning Retaliation
For Alleged Honduran Support to Diaz Forces.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 9.—A threatened attack by Nicaraguan rebels upon Honduras in retaliation for the friendship Honduras has shown the Diaz government is reported in today's dispatch to the navy department.

Arms have been dispatched to the Honduran troops on the frontier and the government has prepared to raise troops to repel an invasion. Rear Admiral Sutherland today reported he was patrolling the Bay of Fonseca to prevent filibustering in aid of the Nicaraguan insurgents. Minister Weitzel has sent a report to the state department which discounts the original report of the wholesale massacre of loyal Nicaraguan troops at Leon on August 19. It is being further investigated.

Minister Weitzel's report indicates
the general situation of Nicaragua improving. The Red Cross has responded to the appeals by non-combatants for food have dispatched supplies
which should reach Corinto today or tomorrow.

BELIEVE BURIED MINERS

ALIVE; WORK TO RESCUE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Blwabak, Minn., Sept. 9.—Workmen engaged in attempt to rescue the two imprisoned miners who are still alive
it is believed in a sub-level of the Ruddy Mine, already have drilled down to where the victims are supposed to be, but all efforts to get a response to their insistent tapping have met with failure. Since the great cloud burst flooded the property
last Wednesday night a crew of forty men have been engaged in trying to get into communication with the buried men. A report is expected to come at any hour that the men have been found.

OF AUSTRIAN WOMAN

Body of Woman Supposedly Drowned
Will be Exhumed by State
Officials Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Sept. 9.—To determine if possible if any agent other than drowning was the cause of the death,
District Attorney Rogers of Orange County, will cause to be exhumed today the body of Mrs. Rosa Szado, an Austrian woman who met death in Green wood lake while in a row boat
with Burton Gibson a New York lawyer now executor of her $10,000 estate.
The autopsy will embrace not only an examination for wounds but a chemical examination of the stomach. Gib-

name of "Mrs. Ritter" in a cemetery in Jersey City, but he has expressed his entire willingness to have it ex-

SUPERIOR-DULUTH

STREET CAR STRIKE

Partial Tie-up of Traffic Between Lake Cities and St. Paul Follows Walkout Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Superior, Wis., Sept. 9.—A partial tie-up of the street car traffic between Superior and Duluth resulted early this morning due to a striking order issued last night by the union street car men of this city. Between the hours of six and seven a. m. service was irregular and greatly hampered the traveling public. A few of the interurban cars running between Duluth and St. Paul were also out of service. Superior, however, is little affected by the strike and the number of men at work is nominal.
The strike is caused principally by the discharge of twelve union men a short time ago.

The men on strike later announced
that a vote was taken and the offer of an increase of 20 cents had been refused and they would continue on strike.

EXPECT MCGOVERN TO

INTRODUCE JOHNSON?

Considerable Speculation as to Governor's Attitude Toward Bull Moose Visitor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 9.—The announcement of a visit of Gov. Johnson of California, to Madison, on Thursday as candidate for vice president in the Bull Moose ticket has raised the question at the capital as to whether Gov. McGovern will be expected to introduce the visitor in this state. Because of Gov. McGovern's absence from this city his attitude cannot be learned. It seems to be the general opinion here that Gov. Mc-Govern will not introduce Gov. Johnson, either here or at the Milwaukee
state fair.

ing by President James C.

Watters—J. Keir Hardie

Present.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 9.—Representatives of the brain and brawn of organized labor in the Dominion filled
this morning when President James C. Watters called to order the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. The attendance at the opening was the largest and probably the most representative in the history of the organization's annual meetings. Seated as guests of honor on the speakers' platform were J. Keir Hardie, the noted British labor leader and member of parliament, and John T. Smith of Kansas City, who was present as a fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor. The exchange of greetings, appointment of committees and other routine business occupied the initial session. The business of the convention will probably last
an entire week. The eight-hour bill, immigration laws, the workmen's
compensation acts, the alien labor act
and other legislative measures, both federal and provincial, are to be exhaustively discussed.

MINNESOTA GIRL DIES IN

AGONY FROM DOG BITES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Blwabak, Minn., Sept. 9.—With her face, arms and legs badly torn by a dog, Mary Parisdarke, seven years old, of this city, died last night in great agony. The girl was visiting at a home in the Mesiba location on Friday when she was attacked by a huge mastiff. The dog jumped at her face and the child fell. The dog then shook her several times. Fifteen dogs, including the mastiff, were shot
yesterday. The head of the mastiff was sent to the Pasteur institute in

BURELSON AND GORE
MEET WITH WILSON

Democratic Campaign Orators Discuss Plans for Stumping Tour—
Two Western Tours for Governor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Governor
Woodrow Wilson spent this forenoon
at democratic national headquarters.
Representative Burelson of Texas,
chairman of the speakers' bureau, and Senator Gore of Oklahoma, chairman of the committee on organization, arrived from Maine where they have been stumping, and discussed with the governor further plans for speaking. From the number of requests which have been coming from the middle west asking the presidential candidate's presence at various meetings, it is apparent that Governor Wilson probably will do much more
speaking than he originally intended.
After the first western trip which will begin September 16th and end September 21st, the governor will have two days' rest at his home in Seagirt, N. J. The present plans are that he will start out almost immediately for another western invasion.

It is likely that on his second trip
he will go to Missouri, Nebraska and Illinois. The governor probably will meet William J. Bryan the latter part of the month in Nebraska.

Favor Pure Food Laws.

A conference of advocates of pure food legislation attended by Gov. Wilson, resulted in a plan to organize workers for pure food laws throughout the country in an association to work for democratic successes next November.

Hurontown, Mich., Man Returns After Ten Years' Absence And Makes Family Happy With Fortune.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hurontown, Mich., Sept. 9.—After an absence of ten years during which time his wife and family of seven or eight children were left to their own resources, Barney McAnney has just returned to his old home in Hurontown near here, bringing with him a fortune of some one hundred thousands. In consequence his family are holding a joyful reunion and all is forgiven. McAnney is doing everything possible to make up for the years of privation which his family have suffered. He became prosperous in a mining venture in Canada.
Sixteen years ago he brought his wife
and several children to Hurontown,
where he failed to prosper and became shiftless. The family increased as the years went by and he finally left for parts unknown. During all his absence, his family got no word of him. A short time ago a friend of the family, Mr. J. McAn-ney in Canada and informed his wife of his address. Communication followed and McAnney showed every desire to make retribution which he was well able to do. He sent for his two oldest daughters who were employed in a laundry in Hurontown, paid all their expenses to Canada and entertained them lavishly, returning with them to Hurontown.

WILL MEAN CHANGES

When Rear Admiral Badger
Assumes Command.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 9.—When Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger takes command of the Atlantic fleet next January in succession to Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, nine changes
among the fleet captains will become effective. Admiral Osterhaus, relinquishing the command of the fleet to become a member of the general
board, has served about eighteen months as commander-in-chief and will have about six months more of active service in Washington after his release before he retires next June. The dreadnaught Wyoming,
a new ship, will fly Admiral Badger's
flag in place of the Connecticut,
which has been the flagship of several fleet commanders. The change in commands which will take place
after the sailors have had their holiday ashore will precede the departure of the big ships for the southern cruise and the beginning of the midwinter drills in the Caribbean.

Fish Puzzles Scientists.

A quantity of extraordinary and quite unknown fish has been landed by a trawler at Granton, England. The fish were caught while the vessel was engaged in trawling in the North sea. Fish-curers and experts state that they have never seen this species before. It has the appearance of a herring, but the head is pointed and the tail forked, while the eye covers the whole side of the head.

NEW STREET LIGHTS URGED AT EDGERTON

Petition Being Circulated Among Business Men For Ornamental System of Street Lighting.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Sept. 9.—With the paving of the streets in the business section of the city it is fitting that the lighting system should be modern and thoroughly up-to-date. With this end in view a subscription list is being circulated among the business men to raise the necessary funds to finance such a system. The system contemplated consists of fifteen cast iron ornamental street lighting posts of most pleasing design, lighted with five large lights on each post which when placed in the downtown section will do much to advertise this city as an enterprising and progressive place. That this is a move in the right direction is evidenced by the number of cities that have already installed such systems. It is something that should appeal to every public spirited citizen and merits his liberal support.

"THE DIVORCE QUESTION"
Rowland & Clifford will produce at Myers Theatre, Wednesday, Sept. 11, Wm. Anthony McGuire's stirring play, "The Divorce Question," which ran for performances at McVickers Theatre in Chicago and received the unanimous support alike of press, public and clergy.

The theme of the play is an argument against divorce, the main idea being that the next generation must be considered in laws enacted by the homeless children fall—the horrible agony of the homeless, parentless girl who becomes the victim of white slavery and who cannot be received later into the homes of her parents because of their subsequent marriage and children.

This condition is only equalled by the wild grief of the boy who has become addicted to morphine in order to drown cognizance of a terrible existence.

present generation, taking the stand that the purpose of marriage in the promulgation of humanity by the production of children and the definite and unrefuted idea contained is that every child has a right to its parents.

The story of the play shows that pathetic phase of life wherein marriage has been adopted as the legitimate means of adultery and wherein two children are sacrificed to the selfishness of the new moral code. The degradation to which the children have fallen seems more terrible when the priest produces statistics to show that they are but two of a million and a half of such brought about by divorce.

The remorse of the parents upon seeing the result of their actions also becomes painful, but their selfish ideas of life prevent them from undoing what they have done, until when almost too late they see the enormity of their offense and through the effort of the priest strive to save the remnants of their flesh and blood.

WHAT IT MEANS.
If by any possibility Colonel Roosevelt can be elected this fall, it means that he will be the logical candidate to succeed himself in 1916. He has already had two terms in the White House, and was practically the president during the first two years of Taft's administration. Eight years more would mean the equivalent of twenty years of continuous service with the chances in favor of his being installed for the rest of his natural life.

"We want Teddy!" is simply the refrain of "Long live the King!" but the idolatry expressed is significant in this land while it may mean but little across the sea. Idolatry to a king is not only expected but demanded, but the worship of an American sovereign rarely exalts him to a throne.

Wm. J. Tucker, L. L. D., formerly president of Dartmouth college, recently wrote a strong article on the dangers of paternalism, giving many good reasons why Mr. Taft should be supported in the interests of safe and sane government.

Referring to Mr. Roosevelt, he said in part:
"The keynote of Mr. Roosevelt's confession of faith was the centralization of power; the formula for the application of the principle was equally clear—Entrust the power to me. And the response of the convention was only too well expressed in the campaign song introduced by one of the delegations and caught up, as reported, with great enthusiasm:

"Follow, follow,
We will follow Roosevelt
Anywhere, everywhere
We will follow on."

"If good men and women, some of them among the best in the country, have become possessed with the idea of the indispensable man it is the most unfavorable symptom yet to be found in the social and political condition of the country. The moment the theory of the indispensable man takes possession of a democracy it ceases to be a democracy. Reforms which cannot be carried out through the steady evolution of democratic principles are beyond the reach of democracy.

"I do not make light of the movement inaugurated at Chicago. The danger from it is in exact proportion to its moral earnestness.

"There is a fascination about the entrance of a new party into the political field—everything new, no inherited evils, no bosses, no corruption, no feuds, no pledges except to the people. A program of promises is alluring. I am profoundly in sympathy with the spirit of the program of social justice outlined by the new party. Social justice is the present goal of all true progressivism. What guarantee does the party offer that it can maintain its pristine purity and fulfill its promises? The answer is Mr. Roosevelt. The answer is entirely fair, for it is evident that without Mr. Roosevelt the party has no existence. It is therefore as fair as it is necessary to analyze Mr. Roosevelt's recent political record, and if one finds there the signs of political deterioration to determine his own political duty accordingly. I have indicated the result of my analysis.

By contrast the course of Mr. Taft, as it appears under the light of the primary campaign, seems to me to show assured political advance. He stands today, as I see him, 'four square,' amid the divers winds of political doctrine, holding the ground and marking the way of progress. Without doubt the natural gifts of Mr. Taft are judicial more than merely administrative, remarkable as was his government of the Philippines. His administration naturally began in the resolute endeavor to put the policy of his predecessor into law.

"Gradually, but surely, Mr. Taft has asserted his power in the enforcement of the laws for the protection of popular rights. Whatever mistakes he has made they are such as a politician would never make, but such as a statesman might make. The greater things accomplished, like his judicial appointments and the breaking up of objectionable trusts, and the greater things attempted, like reciprocity and international peace, will stand to his credit in history whatever the result of the campaign. In spite of popular discontents often fomented for political ends, in spite of party disaffections, the country has made steady political progress under his administration.

"The republican party has never put forth so progressive a platform as that on which Mr. Taft stands for re-election. In fact, the controlling question in the coming campaign is simply this—What kind of progress do the people want? coupled with the hardly less serious question, in what assurances of progress do the people confide? My insistence in this article has been that the broad lines of cleavage are between Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt, not between the republican and the democratic party. The political purposes of Mr. Roosevelt is so clear that he who runs may read—to attempt to swamp Mr. Taft in the popular vote of 1912 with the moral certainty of thereby defeating Mr. Wilson for the democratic nomination in 1916.

"A vote for Mr. Taft, virtually covers two campaigns. I hold no brief for the republican party. Party obligations in ordinary times sit lightly upon me. At the present time I am more than ready to travel the road of political progress, perhaps farther and faster than the republican party may be able in the future to guarantee passage. I am not ready to be propelled or to be sidetracked into Rooseveltism."

CIVIC HISTORY IN NEW JERSEY.

The commission Government of Passaic, N. J., recently introduced a striking novelty in municipal management by practically permitting large property owners to tax themselves. Believing that former assessments had been too low, the Board of Appraisers asked the mill owners to value their own property and taxation. These property owners raised the amounts upon which they were required to pay taxes over five million dollars. In one case the owners of a certain mill declared their willingness to pay taxes on $300,000 more than the city had required of them before. The civic honesty of these manufacturers and their willingness to render to the authorities that which is a just due brings to mind the admonition of the Master: "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's."—The Christian Herald.

The business men of the New Jersey city are no more honest than the taxpayers of other cities, and the same rule applied, on the assessment of property, would produce the same results.

The principle which governed under the old system, was for every man to underestimate his property values, and as the practice was universal, men were not considered dishonest. Under the new system, which prevails in Wisconsin, the state authorities regard every man as dishonest, and so much of his property is assessed beyond its value, and dishonesty is encouraged.

"The average man is willing to contribute his share to running expenses of local or state government, and he has a right to know that other people are doing the same.

The city authorities of Passaic simply adopted the old plan of putting men on their personal honor, and it worked as it usually does. The lack of confidence, which is so conspicuous just now, is one of the weaknesses of the age, and it will continue to be a disturbing element until we realize that all interests are mutual.

It is difficult to make many of the people believe that they have a grievance which nature conspires with industry and produces a climax in prosperity. The calamity howler and political spell-binder may have spasms, and see visions, but the great rank and file of contented people are too busy to be either interested or annoyed. Politics has ceased to be a disturbing element. What bothers the country just now is a shortage of cars to handle the bumper harvest.

The scarcity of anthracite coal which threatens, and is likely to be serious, before the year closes, is not due to trusts or combines, as many people suppose. The mines were tied up with strikes, during the months of April and May, and large consumers, who usually stock up at that season of the year, were unable to do so. There is a limit to the amount of coal that can be produced and handled, and the two months' loss has produced a shortage, which will be felt all over the country.

The United States government has finally come to its senses, and Mexico has been given to understand that Americans must be protected. Troops are on the way to enforce the order, and there is good reason to believe that it will be faithfully executed. Tardy justice has cost some lives, and resulted in much loss of property, which can never be made good.

With September corn at 73 cents in New York, there is not much chance for a decline in the price of meats. Corn is worth more to ship than it is to feed, and many cattle are being marketed in poor condition. The high cost of living is likely to be a fruitful topic for discussion for some time to come.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
BY ROY K. MOULTON.

The Pessimist.
There's been a whole lot written of the values of a smile. But still the fellow that goes 'round a-smilin' all the while And don't do nothin' else but smile, no matter what is said, Don't seem in this world's goods to get so very far ahead.

You'll hear this idea harped on by the optimistic crowd. There is a silver linin' bright to every gold ring 'round. But when the cloud dissolves in air and disappears from view, The silver linin' gen'ally dissolves in thin air, too.

The darkest hour comes just before the dawn, they love to say. Although your own picketier dawn is twenty years away. It never helps the fellow much that's 'workin' in the ditch To hear that some day, possibly, perhaps he may be rich.

They say that all things surely come unto the man who waits. But still they ain't a mite of hope for him who hesitates. The fellow who don't wait, but goes right after things, you know, He is the one who rings the bell and grabs off all the dough.

The optimists and pessimists can argue pro and con And thrash out all the questions that they are debatin' on; But after all is said and done, I think that you will find That misery or happiness is just a state of mind.

According to Uncle Abner. I don't know which was the most pathetic creecher, Eliza crossin' the ice or Napoleon at St. Helena, but I do know the most pathetic lookin' creecher I ever see is that mawl on Hilliker's wagon. It is either pourin' in a secret sorrow or a blighted romance or a sufferin' from a disappointed ambition. So far as weepin' is concerned, that animal would make a life-sized hit pullin' a hearse. No matter how much money a mourner might be left by the late lamented, he couldn't help sheddin' a few tears if he looked that mawl square in the face. I never see a nigger minstrel that didn't look like an' honorary pallbearer when he got his face washed. Elmer Jones struck a great bargain down to the city the other day. He won a dollar's worth of seegars for a dime. He put in seventeen dimes before he won.

About the loneliest position to occupy in this world is to be the only family in the block that doesn't own an automobile.

Anse Judson has had so many punctures this season that he has bought four grindstones and is goin' to use 'em for wheels on his automobile. He says he is goin' to teach that darn rubber trust how to take a joke.

The only fellows that are absolutely safe in eatin' tomato catsup is those who wear red neckties.

This town is so healthy that if it wasn't for exam'nin' men for life insurance the doctors would starve to death.

The old-fashioned fellows that used to 'take snuff' ain't disappeared. They are now new fashioned fellows and get around 'the clubs' smokin' cigarettes.

The wind blew so hard in our village last Friday mornin' that it peeled the paint all off'n the Hard-shell 'fictin' house.

When a fellow's wife picks out his clothes it is a cinch that at least one person will be satisfied with 'em.

FOURTH AVENUE BRIDGE

OPEN TO TEAM TRAFFIC

Wheeled Vehicles Can Now Cross New Structure—Approach From West Made Possible.

The new Fourth Avenue bridge was opened to wheeled traffic for the first time this morning, the approach on the west bank of the river having been made passable and safe. Filling will continue until the approach is the full width of the street, but it will not be rushed as the city can bring in its waste material from other public work at small expense. The opening of the new bridge will relieve the congestion on the Milwaukee street bridge to a very noticeable extent, reduce the expense of teaming for many purposes, and be of great convenience to the business and factories on the north side of the city.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. George Hanthorn Quietly Observe Fiftyth Anniversary of Their Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hanthorn, 807 Fremont street, observed the fiftyth anniversary of their marriage on Saturday evening, Sept. 7. A surprise party was planned by Mrs. Hanthorn's sisters, Mrs. S. H. Joiner and Mrs. James A. Klipp, and the three families spent a most enjoyable evening in celebration of the memorable event. A sumptuous supper was served presided over by the bride and groom of fifty years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hanthorn are old residents of Rock county. Mrs. Hanthorn has lived here since she was two years old and Mr. Hanthorn came to Wisconsin from Pennsylvania when a young man. He was born in Chester county, Pa., in May, 1832. Mrs. Hanthorn was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Vanderburg, pioneer residents of the town of Bradford, where they settled when they moved from New York state in 1845. Mr. and Mrs. Hanthorn have made Janesville their home for twenty-eight years past. Two sons have been born to the union, Oscar Duane and Orlando Van. They also have six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The celebration Saturday was the third event of the kind which has been observed in Mrs. Hanthorn's family. Her parents celebrated their golden wedding and would have passed the sixtieth anniversary had they lived a short time longer. Mrs. Joiner, Mrs. Hanthorn's sister, celebrated her golden wedding one year ago in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanthorn have lived together in the utmost happiness during their wedded life. Both are in good health and their many friends unite in wishing them many more wedding anniversary days.

CLOSE HIGH SCHOOL FOR A FUMIGATION

Three Cases of Infantile Paralysis in City Make Necessary Stringent Action.

High school students on assembling this morning were informed by Prof. Buell that school would be dismissed for the day in order that the school building might be thoroughly fumigated. This action was deemed necessary by the local health authorities when it became known that one of the students who had attended high school last week was suffering with infantile paralysis. The student who is a girl and a member of the Freshmen class, attended school last Wednesday morning but was taken sick and was unable to attend school for the remainder of the week. The case was placed under quarantine.

The first grade and kindergarten rooms in the Jefferson building also closed this afternoon as children who were attending these rooms had frequented the home of the patient who attended high school. Dr. Cunningham stated this afternoon that he expected to have the fumigation of the high school completed tonight so that school could be held tomorrow. Work cannot be resumed in the two Jefferson school rooms before Wednesday. Dr. Cunningham plans to take up precautionary measures at once with the city councilmen as there are at present three cases of the disease under quarantine in the city. He said today that he would ask them to sprinkle the streets of the city every here as the present hot dry weather is favorable to the contagion.

SMALL BOYS ROBBED EXHIBIT OF COMPANY

Chief of Police Applyby Recovers Stolen Property—Not Known Whether Company Will Prosecute.

Twelve small boys, their ages ranging from ten to sixteen years, have been found responsible for the theft of the gold and silver watches, pearl opera glasses and ring from the exhibit of a soap company at Central Hall Friday afternoon. Chief of Police Applyby traced the robbery to them late Saturday afternoon and recovered the gold watches that were stolen. He expects to obtain the opera glasses and ring within a short time. After some of the boys had been brought into his office and questioned they confessed to the robbery. Chief Applyby is not able to state at this time just what will be done with the offenders. With their exhibit today for Kenosha and may decide not to prosecute. According to the story told by the boys they climbed up the fire escape and entered the exhibit room through an open window. There they saw the display of goods and helped themselves. If the boys are not prosecuted it should at least teach them a lesson to leave the property of other people alone.

ANTISDEL TRYING TO SOLVE TANGLE

County Superintendent's Office Trying To Unravel Mysteries of Incorrect Reports Received.

Considerable difficulty in handling the financial statements of the various school districts in the county and of the census of the schools under the jurisdiction of the County Superintendent C. D. Antisdel is experienced when the new annual reports come into the county superintendent's office. Frequent clerical errors are made in tabulating the figures, placing them in the wrong columns or making mistakes in transferring them and to get the reports right is no small task. There are one hundred and seventy districts in the county, and from each of these a financial statement must be made. Up to date, three towns, a city and a village have failed to turn in their reports as required. Besides the financial statements, there are also the reports on the teachers' pension fund to be looked over and corrected.

OLD RESIDENT OF COUNTY IS DEAD

Thoma Meely of Town of Magnolia, Passed Away at His Home at One O'Clock This Afternoon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Gainesville Center, Sept. 9.—Thomas Meely, an old and highly respected resident of Rock county, passed away at one o'clock this afternoon at his home in the town of Magnolia. Mr. Meely had been ill for over a year with cancer, which started in the tongue and, despite an operation and all that could be done to prevent its growth, spread to the throat and brought about his death. He had held many offices of public trust in the community in which he lived and was a member of the Modern Woodman. He is survived by a wife and eight children.

Freedom Was Brief: "Baldy" Jackson, who was sentenced to serve fifteen days in the county jail by Judge Fifield last Friday morning, and was subsequently liberated when a farmer paid his fine in order that he might obtain his services, was again arrested in a charge of drunkenness this morning and on his plea of guilty, sentenced to ten days in jail and to pay a fine of $5 and costs, the alternative being ten additional days.

WISCONSIN BREEDERS TAKE MANY PRIZES

McLay Brothers of Rock County Get Big Awards on Showing of Clydesdales at Iowa Fair.

According to Andrew W. Hopkins, Editor of the Wisconsin Farmer, the showing of Wisconsin stock at the Iowa state fair was exceptionally fine. He has high praise for McLay Brothers' showing of Clydesdales. He writes as follows concerning the Wisconsin representation.

Wisconsin herds and flocks exhibited at the fifty-eighth Iowa State Fair won many of the most coveted awards and in doing so, competed with the very best of the breeders of the corn belt had to offer.

Among the Wisconsin breeders who exhibited live stock at this, the greatest of the corn belt exhibitions, were Frank W. Harding of Waukesha, who showed thoroughbred cattle and Corvold sheep; C. B. McCanna, of Burlington, Holstein cattle; Joseph A. Llyn, of Delavan and H. W. Ayers, of Honey Creek, Brown Swiss cattle; John H. Williams, of Waukesha, Guernsey cattle; Adam Seitz, of Waukesha, Ayrshire cattle; Ed Bruins, of Fairwater, Jersey cattle; McLay Brothers, of Janesville, Clydesdale horses; Alexander W. Arnold, of Galena, Lincoln, Dorset, South Down and Hampshire sheep; and George McKerraw & Sons, of Pewaukee, Shropshire and Oxford sheep.

McLay Brothers exhibited one of the finest strings of Clydesdales shown at Des Moines and among the number were eight of their imported animals. Their home bred stallion, King Norman, which was exhibited at the last Wisconsin State Fair was first among the three year olds and their beautifulilly. Graceful Lady, won the senior and grand championships.

The fact that the money market has been able during the past ten days to absorb the offerings of commercial paper without any advance in rates, would seem to indicate that the high rates for call money will be temporary. The demand for money from the interior which has depleted the New York banks' cash reserves may necessitate gold imports. Capable judges of the financial situation estimate that the United States yet has a balance with Europe as a result of investment buying of our recent offerings of high income securities. In New York the outlook is for irregular rates until well into October.

The Stock Market.
The trend of prices continues to depend upon financial conditions more than all other factors combined. This was exemplified by the equanimity with which the result of the Vermont election was accepted. In fact, the Street has not as yet decided what is to be considered "good" or "bad" news politically. In the meantime, the market is fairly steady with a tendency to seek a lower level, due in a great measure, to lack of leadership, uncertainty and undecided opinion among the traders. However, the tendency of the market can be attributed to but one factor, viz.: the rates for money; and because the demand for money bids fair to continue throughout September it seems highly probable that prices will work lower. The market has already discounted the splendid agricultural prospects. There is no apparent source from which favorable stock market news might emanate.

The Outlook for Railroad Shares.
A summary of the net earnings of the railroads of the United States for the fiscal year, ending June 30th, shows a material decrease in net earnings. Many causes throughout the past year contributed to this condition. The most important factor was the increase in employees' wages which expanded operating expenses. Other factors were the stagnation in commercial and industrial business, and strikes and floods in the middle west which seriously affected the roads operating in that territory. To arrive at a fair estimate of the outlook for the present year, the present outlook must be compared with the factors which caused last year's decrease. In making such a comparison it is plain that the railroads can expect a material increase in tonnage because of a general improvement in commercial business and a large agricultural yield. As against this, evidently there will be no reduction in wages this year, and there may be some advance. Taken as a whole, it would seem fair to estimate that railroad net earnings this year will be larger than the year just past. Seasoned dividend paying checks like Pennsylvania, C. & N. W., Northern Pacific, Great Northern, preferred, Baltimore & Ohio, Atchafalaya, Southern Pacific and Southern Ry., preferred, are all worthy of the investor's consideration on any material decline in price between now and the middle of October.

PRICE OF TIMOTHY SEED TAKES SLUMP

Does Not Bring Third of Price it Did Year Ago—Acreage Large and Yield Very Heavy.

Prices for timothy seed have taken a decided slump during the last year. The killing out of the seedling and the resultant short crop last year brought the price of the seed up to $12 and $13 a hundred pounds at the end of the harvest a year ago. Anticipating a continuance of the high prices farmers increased their acreage and left larger quantities of the hay for seed. The yield has been a very heavy one in the principal growing districts, and the price of timothy seed has dropped to $3 and $3.50 a hundred pounds. Some timothy is raised for seed in Rock county but not enough to influence the market price. The price of the hay still continues high. It is bringing $20 a ton at retail, or a cent a pound.

The crop of clover hay and seed was very poor, most of the seedling being killed out last winter. In Iowa, Northern Wisconsin and Michigan the crop is reported to have been fair. The price of the seed is practically as high as it was last spring, $20 a hundred. Local hay and feed salesmen do not anticipate that there will be any shortage of hay in the country. Government reports state that the crop average for the country is about half again as large as the average. Corn fodder and straw will be plentiful and will be generally used as substitutes for high priced hay by farmers in the districts where the crop was light.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

UNNECESSARY TROUBLE.

THERE is a great deal of necessary trouble in this world. No one who has been in it very long will deny that. There is a great deal of inevitable unhappiness caused by sickness and death and money losses and other more or less unavoidable calamities.

But I believe that for every family where happiness has been lost on account of some inevitable trouble you will find one where happiness is being deliberately and unnecessarily thrown away.

I am thinking of a family where existence has been cramped and spoiled for the last twenty years—the very core of the life of two of its members—by the outrageous exactions of a nervous invalid. She is sick; she is to be pitied; she OUGHT to be kindly cared for. But she has absolutely NO right to have spoiled the happiness of that family as she has done by her domineering insistence of having her own way in everything. And they have no right to have let her. That woman is rotting with selfishness. She has needlessly hindered the happiness of at least two lives, and for my part, I am certain that out of it all she has not gotten for herself any more happiness than she would have by making her share of sacrifice. Indeed I suspect she has gotten very much less.

That's one case of unnecessary trouble. Here's another.

A neighbor of mine was born with an inordinate tendency to worry. He has never made any attempt to conquer it; consequently it has conquered him. There have been many years in this man's life when health, an unbroken family circle and material prosperity were his, and yet all the time he insulted his good fortune by worrying over some possible ill. Needless to say this attribute was a cloud that was continually shutting sunshine out of his own life and that of all those whose lives with him. Surely that was needless trouble and unhappiness.

Again, I know another family in which there is health, comfortable financial conditions, an unbroken family circle and yet little happiness. The unnecessary trouble in this case is the husband's ungovernable—excuse me, I meant ungoverned—temper. Life might be so very pleasant in that little family if it were not for that unnecessary trouble.

Somewhat it seems to me as if real, unavoidable trouble must surely come to these people who, in lieu of it, make unnecessary trouble for themselves. For no one has any right to waste his powers of coping with and enduring unavoidable trouble in creating and suffering under unnecessary trouble; and when he does that, fate must surely be tempted to supply him with the real article.

Is there any unnecessary trouble in your household? Are you the cause of it?

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

nick, grinning from ear to ear. "Why, Dominick," said I, "where did you come from?"

"I'm caddy now at the golf club," he told me. "Say, teacher," said he, "I saw you last night and I was sure it was you, so I waited to see you tonight."

"I told him I appreciated that and was very glad to see him."

"Oh, I wait for you every night now," he assured me.

"He and his little brother Petro are great chums," continued the narrator. "They are both in my Sunday school class, and they tell me everything, good, bad and indifferent that they do or that happens to them. I believe they would just naturally burst if they couldn't."

"The boys have a step-father who doesn't provide for them very well, and Dominick has to get the money to buy his own clothes. One day he told me he had managed to save $3."

"I asked him what he was going to do with it."

"Oh, it is already gone," he said. "I bought me a cap and a shirt and a pair of pants. Then me and Petro spent the rest for an awful good time."

"I've often wondered what kind of a good time they had, for there certainly couldn't have been much money left after Dominick had replenished his wardrobe. He faithfully promised me that he would come and see me in his new clothes."

"Another time Dominick spoke to me very, very seriously."

"Teacher," said he, "me and Petro did something awful bad yesterday."

"Here Petro spoke up in alarm."

"Dominick," he warned, "don't you tell teacher!"

"Oh, but I guess I have to," said Dominick. But he didn't at that time. "He reminded me of it every Sunday for several weeks, however, always laid back by Petro. Finally he burst it out."

"Teacher," he said, "I just got to tell you that awful bad thing me and Petro done. I just got to, teacher."

"Well, then, out with it, I said."

"He leaned over to me and whispered it."

"Me and Petro—we kissed a girl!"

Combination Needed.

The world is made up of drudgers and dreamers; and what we want is a combination of the two.

The Kitchen Cabinet

AS MUCH of beauty as preserves affection. Of most diffidence as claims protection.

A docile mind, subservient to correction. A temper led by reason and reflection. And every passion kept in due subjection. Just faint enough to keep her from perfection.

Find this, my friend, and then make your selection. —Old recipe for selecting a wife.

A COLLECTION OF SANDWICHES.

An unusual way of serving olives at teas and receptions is to cut the olives from the stones, chop fine and mix with salad dressing. Spread this on thin slices of buttered bread, form the sandwiches and cut in squares. Stuffed olives are very good prepared in this way.

There is something about a sardine sandwich which is especially appetizing. Bone the fish and mix with a little lemon juice and salad dressing or with chopped hard cooked eggs. A sour pickle chopped fine instead of the lemon is a pleasant change.

Veal Sandwiches—These are almost as good as chicken and if the veal can be cooked with some chicken bones or a little chicken stock, they can hardly be told from chicken. When the meat is tender, put it through the meat chopper, season with salt, pepper, and add a little salad dressing to make it sufficiently moist. Spread on buttered bread.

Egg and Curry Sandwiches—Put through the fine knife of the meat chopper three yolks of hard cooked eggs and a teaspoonful of bread crumbs. Season with a tablespoonful of curry powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of Worcester sauce and moisten with a little lemon juice. Spread on buttered slices of bread. Garnish with nasturtium leaves and blossoms.

Ham Sandwiches—Put a pound and a half of ham, cold boiled, and a small sour pickle through a food chopper, add a tablespoonful of made mustard, a dash of pepper and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Mix thoroughly and spread on buttered bread.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

What Baby Does for Mother

A GIRL who was an enthusiastic lover of music and who had devoted her girlhood almost exclusively to the study of music, married. Shortly after her marriage she went abroad to continue her study of music, for she was consumed with an ambition to become a great musician. But in the midst of her studies, came a wee baby who upset all her plans and eventually brought her back to this country, with her music sadly neglected because of the care he demanded.

She feels just a bit of a grudge against that baby, and she shows it. She does her duty by him. She bathes him and dresses him and cares for him, for he is a sickly little fellow; but, and especially at first, she did it unvoluntarily, and with a hard, bitter face. Every movement seemed to say, "Just see all the useless things I have to do for you! If it wasn't for you, I could go on with my music."

She is not the only young mother who has rebelled at the care and work a baby has brought. They feel they are called on to give more than they should be asked to give. They resent it and are rebellious; and all this caring for milk bottles, and washing out little dresses, seems useless and petty in comparison with the big things they had planned to do.

But I sometimes wonder if they stop to think what baby is doing for them all the while they are doing for baby?

For it is not all a one-sided arrangement. It may seem to them, in their rebellious state of mind, as if it is all give. But if they only realize it, they are receiving as well as giving.

For that little helpless body and those soft, baby fingers are waking up in them love, as they never knew it before. A great spring of love is beginning to well up in them, refreshing their whole nature and making them a different being. The touch of those clinging baby hands is making them gentle and tender. Because of that dimpled baby, they are seeing the whole world in a new light. They know humanity as they never knew it before, its joys, its sorrows. Their sympathy is keener, broader. They may have to leave behind music or painting or chiseling statues out of cold marble; but they have entered into a far bigger and more real world, a world in which they come in contact with immortal things and build into their character, the attributes of the infinite.

Music and painting and all such pursuits have their place. And those who wish to give their life to them had better consider carefully before marriage just how matrimony may affect their career, and not take their disappointment out on the children afterward. But when cherished ambitions have to be relinquished, if the spirit of rebellion possesses you, try to see what baby is doing for you. You may make the surprising discovery that he is doing far more for you than are you for him.

For love and gentleness and tenderness and sympathy are more valuable possessions than a flawless technique, or a name specially featured as a program.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Henrietta D. Crowl

mass is pulled up and delicately browned. Twenty minutes, in a hot oven, is usually sufficient. The whites of the eggs make a lighter soufflé than the yolks.

Blurred fish. Fish that has been cooked the previous day and left cold, makes a nice dish for breakfast. Pick out all the bones and skin and flake apart with a fork. Add cold boiled potato in an equal quantity. If should all be finely broken, but not mashed together. Heat two tablespoons of butter in a frying pan and season it with salt and pepper. Turn in the fish and potato mixture, and mix it thoroughly with the hot butter. Keep tossing it until it is heated through; then let it brown on the under side. When ready to serve it, invert on a hot platter, so the brown side will be uppermost.

Cream breakfast puffs: These require a moderate oven for the first few minutes, until they have risen to their full height; then increase the heat and finish baking quickly. They are excellent served with hot syrup or honey.

Sift a pint of flour with two teaspoons of baking powder and a teaspoon of salt. Beat two eggs as light as may be and to them add a cup of cream and one tablespoon of melted butter. Add the flour and continue beating until smooth. Have iron gent heated and buttered. Fill only two-thirds full.

Cream cakes: One and a half cups of bread, crumbed fine, one-half cup of flour sifted with a teaspoon of salt, and a teaspoon of sugar; mix this together and add to it two cups of sour milk containing two tablespoons of soda. This should make a thin batter; if it does not add sweet milk until the right consistency is obtained. Fry the cakes on a griddle in butter.

Creole cook calls them. Now make a fritter batter of flour, hot water, the beaten white of an egg and a pinch of salt. Dip the balls in this and fry at once in hot, deep fat. Potato soufflé: Six or eight, boiled mashed potatoes. Three tablespoons of butter, yolks or the whites of three eggs, beaten well. Mix these together and add pepper until the potato tastes pleasantly of it.

Butter a baking dish thickly and put the potatoes in it; bake until the

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1)—How old should a girl be to go with a fellow? how long to go with him to be engaged. In some cases this takes a long time to prepare to get married? (2) I love peppermint lozenges and eat a pound a week. Will they harm me? SWEETNESS.

(1) A girl should be eighteen before she has a regular beau. They should be reasonably well acquainted with each other before they become engaged. In some cases this takes a longer time than others. If there is no obstacle to marriage the engagement should be short—from three to six months.

(2) A pound a week is a good deal, my dear. It can't be good for your stomach. Suppose you try to eat a little less every day and break your soul of the habit of eating so many.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am eighteen years old and have been going with a boy friend twenty years old. I am really in love with him, but my girl friends laugh at me for going with such an old fellow. Ought I to go with him? LILLIAN.

Your girl friends are silly. If you like him, let him call.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am seven, teen and my friend is about eighteen. I met him a few weeks ago and I really love him. I don't know whether he likes me or not. I have written him three or four times and he never answered. Is it my place to write or his? LEONA.

Dear little girl, you don't know enough about real love yet to say that you really love any boy. It's a sure sign he doesn't care anything for you when he doesn't answer your letters. You cheapened yourself by writing to him so often. It's his place to write first and to write the most letters.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I've got a girl and I love her very much. I am just sixteen years old. The other night I went to see her, but I rode out of the door on the old man's toe. I don't like to be easily discouraged and would like to make another visit, but the disastrous outcome of the last still lingers in my mind. I know my girl still loves me for when I met her on the street she told me so. I don't know much about courtship. I would like your very sensible advice. CLARENCE.

The "old man" was a little violent, Clarence, but he must be forgiven for a natural parental wrath when he finds his little girl being courted long before she is old enough to have a beau. And my best advice to you, my boy, is to sit down and digest the fact that you're not man enough yet to have a girl. Wait a minute.

These may be made with sweet milk and baking powder, but the above ingredients are preferable.

SHOULD DEVOTE MORE TIME TO THE CHURCH

PROBLEMS OF CHURCH DEMAND SAME AMOUNT OF WORK AND TIME AS BUSINESS PROBLEMS.

CHURCH IS INVESTMENT

Rev. J. W. Laughlin in Sunday Morning Sermon Urged Church Members to Make Church Work a Life Work.

The work of the church as a great power for good in the community, and the need for every church member taking his part in the work of the church, were clearly outlined in a sermon at the Sunday morning services at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Laughlin, who spoke on the topic, "The Church an Investment."

The text of the sermon was taken from the last three verses of the tenth chapter of Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians, and special attention was directed by the pastor to the last verse: "Even as I also please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved."

"There are very few chapters," said Dr. Laughlin, "which have a clearer twentieth century ring than this chapter. It strikes the note that is being sounded by our modern writers, the social note, of co-operation and of community interests. There is also a suggestion as to Christian liberty—what a man may do and what he may not do."

"The question of personal liberty is one that bothers a great many people. There are many things that are lawful, but not expedient. I think the question of Christian liberty can be easily determined if brought before the same tribunal as Paul brought it—the tribunal of community interests. It may be all right for me to play cards, and it may be all right for me to take a drink. I may be strong enough not to carry them to excess, but if by doing so I set the example for someone who is not able to withstand temptation as well as I, it is wrong. It may be all right to remain home on Sunday, but when I remember the community interests, I am not at liberty to remain at home. It is not difficult to solve the problems when one brings them to that tribunal. I want to speak today of the church and speak plainly and without prejudice. The people are coming to believe in the church as the conservator of those principles which are necessary to community life. It is the thing that concerns the principles upon which we base our civilization."

Rev. Laughlin spoke of the work of the local Presbyterian church and of the fifteenth reunion held by the church and continuing his sermon said: "Take the history of this church for the past fifty years. What a history it is. For one-half a century this church has stood as a monument to the goodness of God—to the people who want to serve God. We have this day are receiving and enjoying privileges which are possible only because of the work our predecessors in the church have done. Who will tell how many men, how many boys have gone out from it, to do their work in the world? Who will tell how many have been restored at times of temptation, or inspired, to do great things. No man can tell the far-reaching influence a church like this has in the community and in the world. "You cannot tell the far-reaching influence of a word, a sermon, or the grasp of a hand. A life transformed or inspired means more power than all the rivers in the world. A man, a single man, means more power than all the stars that have swung the sky since the dawn of creation. "Speaking of the church as an investment, I want to speak of investing your life, your influence and your personality here. If I might speak of the church as a financial investment that would bring great returns, I would not have to advertise in the papers."

In talking of the investment of your life in this church I do not mean to come occasionally, but to invest your influence here as you give your personality to other things, the same as you do to business matters. Some are doing it now, but the church needs your attention in the daytime and your thoughts at night to solve its problems.

"The problems now facing the church of Jesus Christ are more far-reaching than ever before. The work that has been done in the past is not enough. The work of the church today demands our work by day and our work by night. Conditions today demand somebody's mentality and power."

"Consider the program the church has. The program of the Progressive party is clearly defined; revision of the tariff gradually downward and certain other principles. The program of the Democratic party is also clearly defined. But, my friends, the church of Jesus Christ stands for principles no less clearly defined than those of the parties. Our church stands for certain principles; justice, mercy, right, and right living. It stands for the things essential to a good home, to the things essential to a good life and it stands for the things absolutely essential for civilization. You, as members of the Presbyterian church owe the consecration of your power for the church. You may become powerful in worldly power, but what is all the power of the world if you have the feeling that you might have gone after higher things."

The work of the church transforms a man. No man who comes under the influence of the church but has a larger vision, a better life. Will you consecrate yourself to the church for a year? If you do, it will make you a better man or a better woman and the things you will enjoy a year from now will be far more worth while than the things you enjoy now."

GYMNASIUM CLASSES WILL BE ORGANIZED

High School Girls Will Begin Physical Training Work Next Week Under New Director.

Gymnasium work at the high school will be in full swing within the next week. Director Miss Hill, who succeeds Miss Cuyler, issued a call to the high school girls, Friday afternoon and about fifty young ladies were present to hear what remarks were said. This class was very successful in its work last year, and it is hoped it will be more so this coming season. It is compulsory that the Freshman girls take up this work, and on account of so large a class they have to meet a different time from the three upper class girls. This class generally meets last two periods in the day, being called at two thirty-five and lasting until four o'clock. After school the Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors meet as a class and receive instructions from four thirty until six o'clock.

Much work is required of the girls, but not enough to interfere with their studies. Calisthenics, dumb-bell drills and Indian-club swinging are some of the exercises. The girls work at these until they have mastered them and when school is ready for dismissal next June, the class will give an exhibition to the public. Two pageants have been already given and have met with great success, and it is hoped that this year will witness one which will surpass anything which has ever been given before in this line. Miss Hill will have full charge of the work, and she predicts some excellent work and a very successful year.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

(By Howard L. Rapp.)

SWEEPING is one of the unbridled passions of the American housewife which is usually good for six strenuous hours, after which it tapers off into a pole-vauling headache.

The object of sweeping is to stir up all of the adjacent microbes and chase them from room to room. They are then allowed to settle in a new place without fear of interruption for a week.

Whenever a woman gets ready to sweep, she takes a good night's rest, and an unshuffled chromom and lands in the middle of an Axminster rug with a desperate look. Her attire consists of a long apron in the fashionable box effect so much in vogue and a dusting cap which, redlines gracefully over one ear. She is also accompanied by a dust pan, in which she deposits any loose germs which were not quick enough to get out of the way.

After a woman has chased a balky broom over several rag carpets and under half a dozen beds in the effort to renovate a ten-room house, she will not be in any mood to dissipate at the ice cream parlor, but will prefer to sit down at full length on a hair mattress and see if her breath is going to come back that week. She will also have a stitch in her back which would send the average man to the sanitarium for a month.

One of the neatest forms of sweeping is to turn a power vacuum cleaner loose in the home and allow it to run from floor to floor with its purifying presence. The vacuum cleaner does not leave any sting, except in the monthly light bill. It never complains of a lame back or has to put off sweeping until tomorrow on account of a club meeting. Also it never meets a man at the front door on sweeping day and informs him that there is nothing for dinner, except forlorn relics or yesterday's menu.

After the sweeping is done, woman takes a dust rag and assaults the furniture with great violence. She feels better after this is done, and so does everybody else. However, her activity in this line enables us to sit down in the front parlor without being freckled with cobwebs, and we ought to be thankful.

SUFFRAGISTS ALONE ADVERTISE AT FAIR

Board Decides to Allow No Political Literature on Grounds But Women Get Concession Beforehand. Only one kind of political literature can be distributed at the great 1912 state fair, and that is literature that advocates woman's suffrage!

'Strange as it may seem, this condition of affairs does not prevail because the State Board of Agriculture favors woman suffrage, but because the board does not propose to allow any political literature to be distributed.

Advocates of woman's suffrage were wise enough to get their concessions before the board decided to bar political literature. Having granted this concession to women, the board hasn't the courage to revoke it.

Bull Moose managers on Friday conceived the brilliant idea of obtaining permission to erect a booth on the fair grounds from which T. R. literature could be distributed to fair visitors. They thought so well of this plan to reach the thousands who daily will visit the fair that they decided to ask the State Board of Agriculture for permission on Saturday.

Not one of the Bull Moose managers had the least misgiving relative to the board granting their request.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning, F. G. Thwaites, a nephew of F. G. Thwaites, one of the Bull Moose's of Wisconsin, went to the fair grounds to get the permission of the board. He thought all he would have to do would be to ask and the desired concession would be granted.

The State Board of Agriculture gravely assembled, that is, eight members came from parts of the grounds and assembled. Mr. Thwaites presented his request.

In order to go on record in proper light the board passed a resolution to the effect that no political literature would be permitted on the grounds for distribution.

This, of course, doesn't affect the woman's suffrage advocates, for they obtained their concession quite a time ago.

And what board, state or otherwise, is so lacking in gallantry to take back a concession it has granted to women?

"The knowledge that we love each other. That's a good deal, I think." It was the first time she had said in words that she loved him. There was no trace of embarrassment or consciousness on her face; instead she seemed singularly calm and steadfast, much less moved than he. Her words shook him to the soul. He turned his eyes from her face and grasping for her hand, clasped it, and pressed it to his heart, and to his lips, then looked it and rose to his feet, saying to himself:

"Yes, that's a good deal." Her eyes followed him, and then brought up on the schooner bearing away on its long track, strained and careening in the breeze that down there in the open, blew fresh and strong from the great Pacific.

"It's a schooner," she said absently. "Where do you suppose it's going?" "I don't know. Somewhere a long way off, I hope. My devils are sailing away on it."

They stood side by side, gazing down at it till she moved away with a sudden "Good-by."

"Good-by," he answered, and stretched out his hand.

Berny had been turning over in her mind the advantages of accepting the money—had been letting herself dwell upon the delights of possible possession—when at the Sunday dinner that afternoon Josh McCrae threw her back into the state of incensed rejection with which she had met the first offer. With his face wreathed in joyous grins, he had apprised her of the fact that only an hour earlier, while walking on Telegraph Hill, he had seen Dominick there talking with Miss Cannon.

She was quiet for the rest of the afternoon, but it was not till she had reached her own home, silent in its untenanted desertion, that she had an opportunity to turn the full vigor of her mind on what she had heard.

She put from her mind all intention of ever taking the money. She wanted it desperately, terribly.

She knew that the interview for which Bill Cannon had asked was for a last, deciding conversation. He was to make his final offer. It was a moment of torture to her when she wondered what it would be, and her mind hovered in distracted temptation over the certain two hundred thousand dollars and the possible quarter of a million.

She was in this state of feverish distraction when she went to Bill Cannon's office.

to talk further, to thrust it out some more. I've seen Mrs. Ryan since our last meeting. She doubles her offer to you. She'll give you two hundred thousand dollars to leave her son."

"Well, I won't," said Berny, drawing herself to the edge of the chair. "She can keep her two hundred thousand dollars."

"Don't be in such a hurry; I've not finished yet. This is just between you and me," he went on slowly, his voice lowered, dropped to the key of confidences. "I'll give you another hundred thousand. I'll put it with Mrs. Ryan's pile, and it'll run your fortune up well past a quarter of a million."

"You think that I don't know why you're offering me this money. Well, old man, I do. You want to get my husband for your own daughter, Rose Cannon."

"It was Cannon's turn to be speechless. He had not for years received so unexpected and violent a blow. He sat in the same attitude, not moving or uttering a sound, and looking at Berny with a pair of eyes that each second grew colder and more steely.

"Come," he said with sudden authority. "I can't waste my time this way. Are you going to take the money or not?"

His manner, as if by magic, had changed. Every suggestion of deference or consideration had gone from it.

"Will you take the money?" "No!" she said loudly. "Don't ask me that again!"

"All right," he answered quietly, "that ends our business. Do you know your way out, or shall I ring for Granger to see you to the door?"

It was late, almost dark, that evening when Cannon left his office. As he walked down Montgomery Street to the car, he pondered on Berny, wondering and with a sort of begrudging, astonished admiration of a courage that he could not but admire.

Now she had found out about Rose he could not imagine, only it was very enraging that she should have done so. It was the last, and most detestable fact in the whole disagreeable business.

It was the first of May. By the morning's mail he had received a letter from Gene announcing, with the playful blitheness which marked all the young man's allusions to the transfer of the Santa Trinidad ranch, that the year of probation was up and he would shortly arrive in San Francisco to claim his own.

Gene's father had read this missive in grim-visaged silence. The sense of self-approval that he might have experienced was not his; he only felt that he had been "done." Two months before, thinking that the ranch was slipping too easily from his grasp, that he was making too little effort to retain his own, he had hired a detective to go to San Luis Obispo and watch the career of Gene for signs of his old waywardness. On the thirtieth of April the man had reported that Gene's course had been marked by an abstinence as genuine and complete as the most exacting father could wish.

His mood was unusually black when he entered the house. The servant, who came forward to help him off with his coat, knew it the moment he saw the heavy, scowling face. The piece of intelligence the man had to convey—that Mr. Gene Cannon had arrived half an hour earlier from San Luis Obispo—was not calculated to abate the Bonanza King's irritation.

Gene, however, was not at all abashed by any lack of cordiality. At the best of times, he was not a sensitive person, and as this had been his portion since his early manhood, he was now used to it. Moreover, to-night he was in high spirits. In his year of exile he had learned to love the outdoor life for which he was fitted, and had conceived a passionate desire to own the splendid tract of land for which he felt the love and pride of a proprietor.

ing the last few days, as she had been confined to her room with a cold. This was the first evening she had been at dinner for four days, and the old man had looked forward to one of their slow, enjoyable meals together, with a long, comfortable chat over the black coffee, as was their wont.

When dinner was over, and she rose from her seat, he asked her to play on the piano in the sitting-room near by.

Neither of the men spoke for a space while the music crept in softly from the sitting room. The old man gazed for a while maliciously at his son.

"Well, you've got it!" said the father at last, in a loud, pugnacious tone. "You've got it, haven't you?" "Well, I guess I have," said Gene, his triumph tempered by an air of modesty, "and I guess I earned it fair. I stuck to the bargain and there were times when I can tell you it was a struggle. I never once slipped up. If you don't believe my word, I can bring you men from down there that know me well, and they'll testify that I speak the truth."

"It was Rose who really put me up to it," he went on. "She'd say to me I could do it, I only had to try; any one could do anything they really made their minds up to. If you said you couldn't do a thing, why, then you couldn't, but if you said you could, you got your mind into that attitude, and it wasn't hard any more. And she was right. When I got my mind round to looking at it that way, it came quite easily. Rose's always right."

"Then, why the hell," said the old man, "do you go on talking about yourself and your damned concerns, bothering the life out of her when she's got troubles of her own?" "Troubles of her own? What troubles has she got?"

"She's got a cold," said Cannon. He spoke sharply and looked at Gene with a sidelong eye full of observant malice. The young man gazed back at him, confused, for a moment half inclined to laugh, thinking his father, in a sudden unaccustomed playfulness, was joking with him.

"Well, if it's only a cold," he stammered, "it's nothing to tear up the ground about. I thought it was something serious, that Rose was unhappy about something. But a cold—"

"After all, it was a good thing the boy did not know; he was of the kind who could not be trusted with any information of importance. He did not want Gene or anybody else to interfere. He, Rose's father, and he alone, without any outside assistance, would reach up and pick out for her any star that sparkled in the heavens, any moon for which she might choose to cry. She wanted Dominick Ryan for her husband. She should have him and it would be her father who would get him for her. He would give her Dominick Ryan, as he would a pearl necklace or a new automobile to which she had taken a fancy."

of wall that she could see gleamed with dampness. A corner of stone, on which a drop regularly formed, hung and then fell, held her eyes for a few vacantly staring moments. Then she turned away, muttering to herself: "Good Lord, what a day!"

She was at her lunch when the telephone bell rang. She dropped her napkin and ran to the instrument which was in the hall. She did not know what she expected—or rather she did not expect anything in particular—but she was in that state of feverish tension when she seemed the focus of portentous happenings, the point upon which events of sinister menace might, at any moment, bear down. Bill Cannon might be calling her up, for what purpose she could not guess, only for something that would be disagreeable and perturbing.

It was, however, her husband's voice that answered her. He spoke quickly, as if in a hurry, telling her that he would not be home to dinner, as a college friend of his from New York had just arrived and he would dine and go to the theater with him that evening. Berny's ear, ready to discover, in the most alien subjects, matter bearing on her husband's interest in Rose Cannon, listened intently for the man's name. As Dominick did not give it she asked for it, and to her strained and waiting attention it seemed to come with an intentional indistinctness.

"What is his name?" she called again, her voice hard and high. "I didn't catch it."

It was repeated and for the second time she did not hear it. Before she could demand it once more, Dominick's "Good-by" mumbled along the wire and the connection was cut.

She did not want any more lunch and went into the parlor, where she sat down on the cushioned window-seat and looked out on the vaporous transparencies of the fog. She had waked with the sense of weight and apprehension heavy on her. As she dressed she had thought of the interview of yesterday with anger and also with something as much like fear as she was capable of feeling. She realized the folly of the rage she had shown, the folly and the futility of it, and she realized the danger of an open declaration of war with the fierce and unscrupulous old man who was her adversary. This, with her customary bold courage, she now tried to push from her mind. After all, he couldn't kill her, and that was about the only way he could get rid of her. Even Bill Cannon would hardly dare, in the present day in San Francisco, cold-bloodedly to murder a woman. The thought caused a slight, sarcastic smile to touch her lips. Fortunately for her, the lawless days of California were passed.

MENTAL CONSTIPATION.

Experiments upon animals have shown that the emotions have a most important influence upon the secretions and upon elimination. While constipation is largely the result of wrong habits of eating and of improper exercise, the mental attitude has much to do with the correction of this ailment. It may be said, indeed, that there is mental constipation, cases in which the mental state is the chief factor in the cause and therefore in the cure. Worry exhausts the nervous energy upon which all the mental and bodily functions are dependent. It generates toxins that poison the blood, and destroys the harmony upon which normal cell activity is so largely dependent. Pleasurable emotion, without undue excitement, has a favorable action upon the secretions and upon elimination, and hence the importance of proper mental surroundings for the invalid and for all who would maintain the highest degree of efficiency. The habit should be cultivated of avoiding all discordant thoughts. One should entertain the impressions that are pleasurable and refuse to entertain those that are discordant. Such a habit can be gradually established and the health thereby greatly improved.

FASTING AND OBESITY.

"Would you advise fasting for one who is about 40 pounds overweight?" That depends on the conditions in the case. An absolute fast of more than five days is seldom advisable without competent supervision. In any case weight should be reduced gradually. As already explained, while fasting judiciously is beneficial under some circumstances, it is often permanently harmful. It is less likely to be so when one is overweight than in cases of under weight. Fasting can no more be applied indiscriminately as a cure-all, not even for obesity, than can any other remedy. Obesity is a disease, and a simple diet, with proper exercise and natural living otherwise, will bring about normal conditions, without the risks of any extreme measures.

THE COMB'S MORNING STORY

You know the story the comb tells. It's a very discouraging story, too. Day by day, a few more strands are added, of hair that is turning grey, losing its vitality, its strength and its health.

Grey hair is as unbecoming as old age. Natural pride should have its own say. You wish to look young and it is your DUTY to appear so. You can't even LOOK young if the silver threads begin to show. Be a "Young Woman" in looks, always. The grey hairs belong to the chaperon and to the grandmother.

Being Practical. Practical people are wise people. Genius may create brilliant ideas, and be of a very active turn of mind, but money makes the more go, and what practical people really wish is to have a pot, to have that full of potatoes, and to have fire enough to make the pot boil.

MADE HER WELL WOMAN. Mrs. W. P. Valentine of Camden, N. J., says: "I suffered with pains in my back and side, sick headaches, no appetite, was tired and nervous all the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I wish other suffering women would avail themselves of this valuable remedy."

For nearly forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and no sick woman does herself justice who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs.

WITH the ordinary typewriter, the day's work usually begins to tire the operator by three o'clock; the constant strike, strike, strike on the usual heavy touch machine shows its fatiguing effect in mid-afternoon. But when the operator has the advantage of

there is neither three o'clock fatigue nor closing hour fatigue. The Monarch operator doesn't hammer the keys, she touches them. The mechanical principle exclusively incorporated in the Monarch completes the impression. A feathery touch starts it—therefore strength isn't called for and fatigue doesn't follow.

Letters written on the Monarch Typewriter are uniform in spacing, alignment and color.

In addition to the Monarch Light Touch, and the exclusive Monarch Rigid Carriage feature, every other important improvement of the modern typewriting machine, such as Back Space Key, Two-Color Ribbon Shift, Contained Tabulator, etc., will also be found in the Monarch. Let us demonstrate Monarch economy of strength, time and money.

DINNER STORIES

On one occasion Senator Tillman was so much pleased with a speech he made that he printed it in pamphlet form. "I congratulate you," Senator Bailey said, a few days later, "on that speech which you have circulated as a pamphlet. I happened to see one this morning, and it contained some of the best things I have ever seen in any pamphlet on that subject." "I am very proud to hear you say so," said Tillman, much gratified. "What were the things that pleased you so much?" "Why," explained Bailey, "as I passed the Senate restaurant this morning I saw a girl come into the corridor with two cherry pies wrapped up in it."

The usual crowd was gathered at the New York end of the Brooklyn bridge waiting for trolley cars. An elderly lady, red in the face, flushed and fussy, dug her elbows into convenient ribs irrespective of owners. A fat man on her left was the recipient of a particularly vicious jab. She yelled at him, "Say!"

He winced slightly, and moved to one side. She, too, side-stepped and clung to him vigorously on the back. "Say," she panted, "does it make any difference which of these cars I take to Greenwood cemetery?"

"Not to me, madam," he answered, slipping through an opening in the crowd.

When Dr. Matthew Hyles was once occupied in nailing some list upon his door to exclude the cold, a parishioner said to him: "The wind blows wheresoever it listeth, Dr. Hyles."

"Yes, sir," replied the doctor, "and man listeth wheresoever the wind bloweth."

the best of people. Even at home he kept his talent in play. His wife said to him one morning:

"Harvey, dear, this is the fifteenth anniversary of our wedding. What are you going to give me?"

"This is what I am going to give you," Harvey answered, affectionately, and he handed his wife $15 in crisp, fresh bills.

"Oh, thank you! And what shall I give you?" the gratified wife asked.

"That meerschaum pipe I've been admiring so long," Harvey promptly announced.

"In the evening on his return home the pipe awaited him. It had cost just $15. He lit it up and began to color it carefully.

"But as the evening wore on his wife seemed ill at ease.

"Where is my present, Harvey?" she said at last, fretfully.

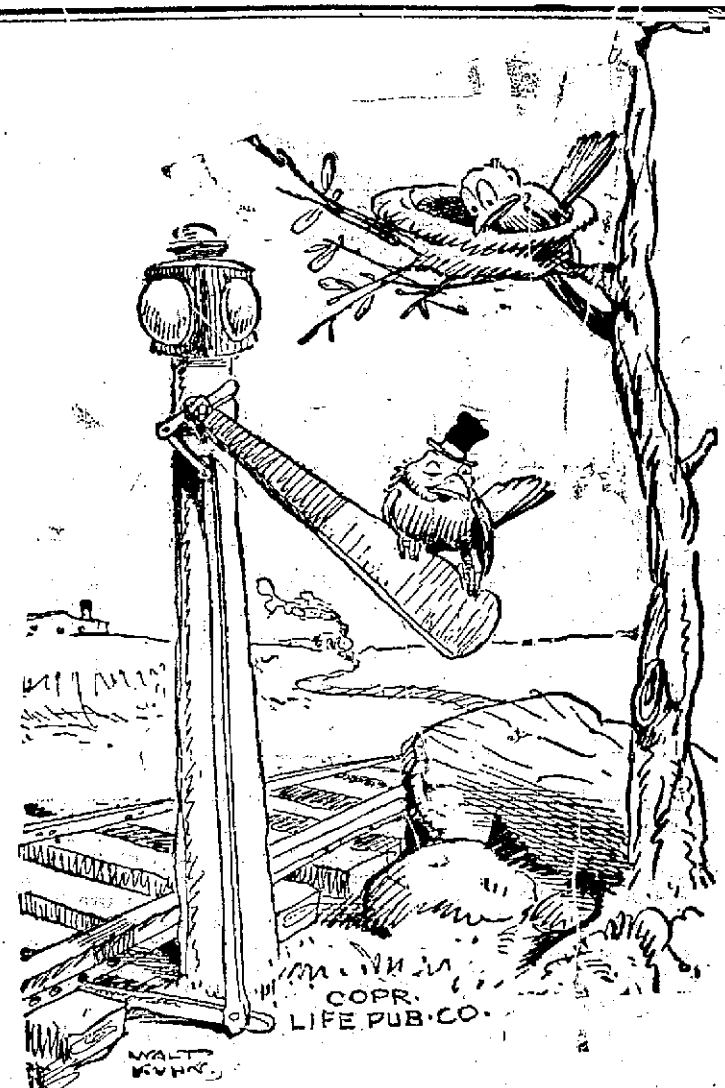

"Well, my dear," Harvey explained, "you gave me a pipe. I gave you $15. Don't you see? We're both even."

Smallest of Snakes.
The hair snake, the smallest of all creatures bearing the name of snake, is found in water, and is responsible for many a heated discussion in rural districts, where the common belief is that it originates from horse hairs. This theory is all a myth—horse hair snakes are parasites living inside of crickets and grasshoppers, upon leaving which they seek the water to lay their eggs.

The Peanut Flux.
The last thing to recover from the effects of a big celebration is the five-cent bag of peanuts. It dwindles painfully during the influx of great crowds. Other foods remain comparatively stable in quantity for a fixed price, but the mob diminishes the allowance of peanuts for a nickel by half.

CRESOTA, THE GREAT FLY CHASER.
Cresota is the strongest and cheapest Fly Chaser for cattle or horses, knocks them off dead or get your money back, strong enough to kill chicken lice or fleas on dogs, yet does no harm to stock; antiseptic and healing, contains no oil of tar, cheap machine oil or anything nasty or sticky; costs less than one-half of any other fly chaser, used on some of the largest stock farms in Rock county never fail. If you have been disappointed in patent fancy remedies, try this old reliable Cresota Fly Chaser sold only by Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Streets.
